

ELBA MUSIC LOVERS' CLUB MET JAN. 18—

Mrs. L. P. Mullins was hostess to the Elba Music Lovers' Club Thursday afternoon, Jan. 18. The reception rooms were very attractive in decorations of early spring flowers. Mrs. J. C. Fleming called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. T. B. Bryan, the vice president presided over the short business meeting. She also introduced the program and gave an interesting paper on "Folk Music of Scotland"; Mrs. Lowery told entertainingly of "How Scotland Sings Her Story"; a poem by Robert Burns, "Despondency," was effectively given by Mrs. A. C. Dunaway; "Blue Bells of Scotland" and "Coming Thru the Rye" were played by Mrs. R. L. Cooper as the concluding number.

During the social hour the hostess served a delicious salad course with coca cola.

JESUS' CONCERN FOR ALL

GOLDEN TEXT—Matthew 9:1, 9-13.

What is a man worth? Well, say, that he needs and that we are prone to underestimate him. Jesus had (and taught) a high regard for the inherent value of man. He saw possibilities in all men. He had a love for them. He was concerned about their welfare, and they responded by an interest in him.

Jesus showed by His dealings with men how wrong are some of our attitudes toward the world. With Him there were:

I. No Social Barrier (vv. 9, 10).

The caste system of some lands, dividing people into social strata which separate men and hinder fellowship, does not exist in our land. Yet, in practice, we have such levels which are a formidable barrier in the building of many (perhaps most) people.

Jesus knew nothing of social barriers. He ignored them and went straight to the man in need. In our lesson it was a man of position and wealth who was an outcast among his people because he was a hated gatherer of taxes for Rome.

Jesus saw in him a man of faith and a useful witness for Him. And He not only talked with him, but called him to be His disciple. Then He went further, and to the astonishment of His critics, went to a great feast where many such men were gathered.

He ate with sinners and sinners, because He approved of their manner of life, but because He wanted to change it. He came to them as a man of peace, not as a man of war.

He had a kind and noble impulse had died a-borning because of fear of criticism. "What will people say?" has kept many a Christian from speaking to some sinner about his or her soul.

"The world is too much with us—" and we all too often give up the service by the possible reaction we may receive from those round about us. We did not learn such an attitude from Jesus.

His answer to His critics made it clear that there will be no self-righteous, "good enough" people in heaven. The Lord is not even calling them, so long as they are in their own goodness. He came to seek and to save sinners (vv. 13, and Luke 19:10).

We too, may go forward without fear of our critics. That doesn't mean that we are to tempt people to "think" about us. We ought to care, but if their opinion is based on selfish and selfishness, we should certainly not be deterred from our all-important business of soul-winning.

III. No Limitation of Time and Place (vv. 12-13).

Often the help of men to those in need is circumscribed by so many regulations that those who most deserve help cannot get it.

There are places for application forms, and tests must be completed, and but one wonder at times whether our charitable impulses have not disappeared under a mountain of red tape.

Be that as it may, how interesting it is to see that Jesus met the need when and where it appeared. He was already on an errand of mercy when the sick woman touched His robe. He was not too busy nor too preoccupied to stop and give her a word of help and comfort (vv. 22).

Is there not a significant lesson here for us in the church? The need is a constant one for the extension of our help. The place is anywhere that men are in sadness or sorrow, and the hour is now when they need our help.

IV. No Lack of Power (vv. 23-26).

How wonderful it is to see that Jesus met the need when and where it appeared. He was already on an errand of mercy when the sick woman touched His robe. He was not too busy nor too preoccupied to stop and give her a word of help and comfort (vv. 22).

JESUS AND THE TWELVE

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 10:1, 5-6, 11:1, 2:23-26.
GOLDEN TEXT—Ye are my friends, I will do whatsoever I command you.—John 15:14.

Service for Christ has not always been as impressive and effective as it should be because it has been based on conviction and spiritual power. God did not intend it to be the weak and ineffective thing that it often is because of our failure to go to God's way. The sending out of the twelve had special significance and yet it brings forth principles which have a bearing on the service of every believer in Christ.

The Servants of Christ—

I. Have a Divine Commission (10:1, 5-6).

The twelve disciples had already been called into the Lord's service. Now they were to be prepared for the service which was ahead. It was a service of preaching and evangelism for service.

God calls men today to serve Him. In fact, there is a very real sense in which every Christian is called to serve. Let no one try to excuse himself from that responsibility and privilege.

To receive a special call to leave their accustomed way of work and launch out into a broader service for Christ. When that time comes, we must be ready to work for nothing. The Jesus said that the same as one paid day. They took everything they wanted by force. They also treated the women something terrible. You can't imagine how it makes you feel when they tell you these things. I have heard these guerrilla fighters talk about having to kill their own relatives because they were giving information to the Japs. I heard one captain tell about having to kill his own father, but it was either his life or maybe a lot of soldiers. The guerrilla fighters are the Filipinos who have been fighting the Japs ever since they took over here in 1942. They stay up in the mountains and do such the Japs in small groups and kill them.

Wilton. This is my address: I would be glad to hear from anybody.

Wilton R. Bailey, S. 1-c, P. Box 3964, Elba, Ala. San Francisco, California.

The glorious thing about being a messenger for God is that we carry no ordinary commission. What we have to present is far above the most important message any earthly ambassador could possibly have to carry.

We, the children and servants of God, think Jesus Christ has something direct from the throne of God. He has revealed it (v. 25), and it seemed good in His wisdom to give it to those who had the childlike faith to believe Him.

God's revelation is hidden from those who are wise in their own conceits, who are too proud to come by way of humility and faith. Thank God, some of the wise and mighty of this world have been willing to become as little children and learn at the feet of Jesus.

The encouraging thing about it is that the door is open to the simplest believer to trust God, to take the revelation of God's truth in His Word, and give it out with grace and power.

III. Extend a Divine Invitation (11:28-30).

"Come"—what a blessed word for the needy and sinful! They are not to be shut out by their sin, nor to be hindered by their weakness. The door is open, and the invitation is to come. Why not respond?

To whom are they to come? To Jesus. There are times when men can help us, when friends or church officers or the pastor can give us an "aiding word of counsel and encouragement. But for salvation, for a real lifting of the burden from the shoulders of those "that labor and are heavy laden," there is no one like Jesus.

We are privileged to invite people to Jesus, knowing that if they "hear" of Him (v. 29), they will not only have their loads lifted and find rest, but will enter into a blessed yoke, fellowship with Him in life and service.

His is a wholesome or a kindly yoke. That is the meaning of "easy" in verse 30. It is not always easy to serve Christ, but being yoked with Him in a kindling of service makes the burden light.

The world is full of tired and discouraged people. We who know Christ have the adequate answer to their need. Shall we not go to them in His name to present the gospel to them and invite them to come to Christ?

1945 AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION PROGRAM

By Hugh D. Sexton,
County Agent

Announcements relative to the 1945 AAA program indicate that the program will again stress the importance of conservation. This simply means that farmers will benefit from the program only by carrying out approved conservation practices on their farms.

The 1945 program is different from the 1944 program in three important respects:

1. The individual 1945 farm allowance for carrying out approved practices, including winter leucum already seeded, will be limited to 75 per cent of the farm's 1944 allowance.

2. Farmers will be required to get approval from the County Committee before carrying out a practice for which they expect to get credit.

3. Farmers will be required to pay the difference between the cost of carrying out a practice and the AAA payment rate.

Conservation practices approved are:

1. Application of superphosphate.

2. Application of basic slag.

To receive AAA credit superphosphate and basic slag must be applied to kudzu, leucaena, and winter leucaena pasture or winter leucaena grown alone.

The AAA payment rate for applying basic slag is 35 cents per 100 lbs. The payment rate for phosphate varies from 63 cents per 100 pounds to 70 cents per 100 pounds depending upon the analysis of phosphate used.

3. Application of ground limestone. The payment rate for applying limestone is $3.75 per ton.

4. Establishing a satisfactory cover of kudzu. The payment rate for establishing a cover of kudzu is $6.00 per acre.

5. Construction of standard terraces. The payment rate for constructing standard terraces is 80 cents per 100 lineal feet.

FOOD:

1945 Prospects

So far well fed Americans can continue to look forward to substantial nutritious fare in 1945 although supplies will be below last year's level. WPA Supply and Distribution Director Lee Marshall declared.

Although there will be about the same amount of beef, there will be less pork, veal and lamb, Marshall said. Poultry supplies should be larger.

Supplies of dairy products will be pretty good, Marshall predicted, with more fluid milk, enough evaporated milk to meet essential needs, and less butter.

Although in good supply, the volume of fresh fruits and vegetables for the next three months will not approach last year's, Marshall said. Offsetting a slight increase in the supply of canned vegetables for 1945 will be about 12 per cent less fresh fruits and juices.

Cereal products will be plentiful but the sugar situation will be tight, the WPA official declared, because of smaller reserves and increased military requirements.

PEACE TIME DRAFT:

Hit by Colleges

Although pleading full support for an adequate defense program, the Association of American Colleges went on record as opposing an immediate enactment of compulsory peacetime military training for youth because other methods have not been fully explored and the subject should be given more study than now is possible.

Chairman of the committee drawing up the resolution against immediate enactment of peacetime training, Dr. Donald J. Coville, president of Carleton college, said: "This resolution does not get into the present mess through lack of manpower, but because it lacked a real life o. k."

Well, Mrs. Clark, I haven't much time to write, I am waiting on my papers to go home. Will close now.

passing the giant Lockheed Constellation's time of 6 hours and 58 minutes from Los Angeles, Calif., to the capital.

To be known as the "strato-cruiser," the postwar version of the B-29, now known as the army's C-97, will carry 100 passengers and use engines of more than 3,000 horsepower each.

Although army officials refused to comment on the B-29's record flight, the ship has been undergoing service tests on the west coast since November with gratifying results, it was learned.

BUDGET: 87 Billion Asked

Total authorizations for the war program since 1940 will have reached 450 billion dollars by June 30, 1945, with President Roosevelt's request for an $7 billion dollar budget for the next fiscal year ending on that date.

At $7 billion dollars, the President's budget was about 13 billion dollars below last year's 100 billion dollars, with most of the reduction in war expenditures. Because of decreased war expenditures, however, individuals and corporations will receive less income and pay less taxes, with revenue expected to go down to about $1 billion dollars. By the end of June, 1946, the national debt will reach 292 billion dollars, the President estimated.

Included in the President's budget was a request of 24 billion dollars for veterans' benefits, which can be expected to increase upon demobilization, he said, and the asking of a half billion dollars for the War Food administration for the farm price support program. He also requested that the borrowing authority of the Rural Electrification system be raised to 150 million dollars and that the Federal Housing Administration be increased to 125 million.

EGGS: New Program

In a program separate from price support, the government reportedly planned the purchase of from 1,000,000 to 3,000,000 cases of shell eggs to be shipped to Great Britain, with the possibility that the surplus of the venture may lead to the development of a postwar trade with that country, which imports the produce in peacetime.

The shell egg program is in addition to the government's intention to dry about 350,000,000 pounds of eggs.

HEARS FROM SON

IN NEW GUINEA

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clark, of Florida Rt. 1, received a letter last week from a shipmate of their son, Watson Clark. He has many relatives and friends in Coffee County who will be glad to hear from him. He has served in the Navy five years. Below is a copy of the letter:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Clark: I was a shipmate of your son, Watson, on the USS A. P. C. 11 which left the U. S. A. April 14, 1943. I just got back in the States. I am not kidding when I say he is getting fatter every day.

He will soon be home. Mr. Talbot was 49 years of age and had spent nearly all his life in Elba. He served with the military forces in World War I and due to that service had practically lost his eyesight. He possessed a most friendly nature and had scores of friends here and throughout this section who were shocked at his sudden passing.

Surviving are his father, H. C. (Pete) Talbot; two sons, Kenneth and Ted Talbot; three sisters: Mrs. Joe Sanders, Mrs. D. L. Harris and Mrs. Eugene Brown; three brothers: Fred, Hutch and Charles Talbot; and many other relatives.

Funeral services were held at Elba Baptist Church Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Rev. O. M. Fox and Minister J. C. Dixon officiating. Interment was in Evergreen cemetery. Pallbearers were: Levy Foley, Will Brunson, Guy Folsom, Ed Kendrick, Levy Morrow and Jim Whitman. Hayes Funeral Home had charge of arrangements.

Surviving are her husband, W. G. Crosby; two sons, Willie E. and Lloyd R. Crosby; three daughters, Mrs. Mae Farris, Mrs. Maude H. Herrington and Mrs. Ruth Pope.

Funeral services were held at Damascus Church on February 8, with Rev. A. W. Barker officiating. Interment was in Evergreen cemetery. A. F. Ballenger, Hubert Holloway, Wilbur Adkinson, Elmer Purvis, Cecil Windham and John W. Stephens. Hayes Funeral Home had charge of arrangements.

With The Seventh Army in France—The cannoner pulled the lanyard and another page was added in the history of the 933rd Field Artillery Battalion, as the last round of a total of 100,000 was fired.

This was the cause of a recent celebration in this Alabama National Guard Battalion, which has marked its progress through much of the fighting in Italy and France. The battalion, which recently completed its fourth year of active service, with 16 months of that time overseas. Battered men and officers are entitled to wear four campaign stars on their theater ribbons.

The first of the above mentioned total was fired from a position in the Volturno valley in Italy. The greatest number rounds fired in a single 24-hour period by the battalion was 3,064 when it supported the Allied attack in Italy last May 11 and 12, from positions along the Garigliano River. Of these rounds, 1,329 were fired in the first four and a half hours of the attack.

Personnel of this battalion originally came from Southeast Alabama towns of Elba, Florida, Geneva, Troy and Dothan. Upon mobilization of the unit on 25 November 1940, it was the 2nd Battalion, 117th Field Artillery Regiment of the 31st Infantry Division.

A part of the original officer personnel from Alabama are still with the unit. The executive officer, Maj. G. B. Wilder, and the Plans and Training officer, Major Don S. Mathews, are natives of Andalusia. Others are Captain R. C. Holman, Evergreen; Lieutenant H. A. Dorsey, Elba; and Captain Jack Parsons, Dothan.

The battalion entered combat in Italy near Venice and later proceeded to the east and west sectors of the Cassino, and over the spine of the Italian peninsula in rugged terrain, under severe cold in the winter months and severe heat in summer.

The unit participated in the crossing of the Garigliano River, in the taking of Cassino, the break-through of both the Gustav and Hitler lines and was present at the fall of Rome and the subsequent drive to the north. It participated in the capture of Siena, important communications center on the road to Florence, and aided in the drive to capture Florence.

Also mentioned in its combat history are several citations, chief of which was awarded by the French Expeditionary Corps in Italy. This citation carried the award of the Croix de Guerre, with Vermillon Star, and read in part: "This unit has, from 11 May 1944, throughout the whole of the French Expeditionary Corps' offensive, provided rapid and large scale protection for our advance elements, effectively aiding the latter in their victorious advance."

The citation was signed by General of the Army Juin, then commander of the French Expeditionary Corps and now chief of French Army Staff.

The battalion shared in the citation tendered by Col. Naveau, of the French Army, last June, when it was part of a Field Artillery Group. This citation lauded the courage of a blacksmith, Field Artillery Battalion's commanding officer, and went on to read: "Having been authorized to take up positions farther back, the Group chose to remain in positions already occupied, fired with great precision under the most difficult circumstances and never failed to display the greatest coolness under fire."
